$3,000 Blaze Hits Physician's Home In W'land Park

Approximately $3,000 in damage was suffered by the Woodland Park residence of Dr. and Mrs. Coolie Combs when fire broke out in an upstairs bedroom.

Cause of the fire has not been determined, Fire Chief Lawrence Sizemore said this morning.

The blaze destroyed the contents of the bedroom and did approximately $1,200 in damage to the brick residence.

Firemen answered the call at 6:17 p. m.

Chief Sizemore said no one was in the room when the blaze started, and that city firemen had the blaze under control within twenty minutes after arriving at the home.

No water damage was suffered by downstairs rooms, it was reported.

Knott Court Dismisses Charges Against Attorney

Charges against Calvin Manis, Hazard attorney, for transporting alcoholic beverages in a local option territory were dismissed in Knott County Court this morning.

Knott County Attorney Dan Martin said today that as far as he could determine, Manis had broken no Kentucky statute. Martin made the motion dismissing the charges against Manis.

Martin said Manis had a license to "do business and to transport" beer.

Manis was arrested in Letcher County last Wednesday as he was returning from Pike County, where he had the same day appeared in Pike County Court.

When returning to Perry, Wednesday, he was driving the truck that carried 305 cases of beer which had been the start of his troubles on Oct. 23rd.

Jury To Have Written Guide

Grand jurors will have an instructional aid available to them for the first time in the history of Perry County when they convene here for the November term next Monday.

A four-page mimeograph instruction sheet on the duties and power of the grand jury has been prepared by County Attorney C. A. Noble. Noble said today the brochure has been prepared to assist grand jurors in their work.

Nicknames Are As Common Today As In Yesteryear

Fred W. Luigart Jr.

What's in a name? Ask a student at Hazard High School and you'll find that a name, as least the one provided him by his parents, doesn't mean much to teenagers.

They've got their own names for each other. All of which goes to prove that the tradition of nicknames is as prevalent today as it was when you and I were in school.

And the range is just as wide. Animals and foods are still the source of many, as evidenced by "Bear Tracks, City Sparrow, Weasel, Cheese, Melonhead, Onionhead, Fishhead Bear, Goose, Pump-a-nickel, Bullmoose Ducky-Ducky, Percimmon Head, Smilyburger," and "Snake"; just a few of the more common ones now in vogue among students.

But what about "One-Arm Bandit"—there's a new one for you, or "Big-M," a take-off on modern America's automotive world, r "Little Darling."

Even "X" is now a nickname for the rock and roll crowd. And what about "Bowhead, Winkle, Hoe Jaker, Hooker, Zero, Backwood, Red, Bish, Hank, Duke, Ballon-head, Abe Pee-Wee Jobo Josh Tiny Mayor Cookie Buz Lonzo, Big Gerald, Jake, Diz or Scrooge," m're names in the vocabulary of H.H.S. students.

So don't be disturbed, parents, if you hear your son's or daughter's friend come up with a new name for your "little darling." Chances are, the friend sports one that's even more unusual.

State Officials Urge Hazard Voters To Approve Bond

Two Candidates Fail to Appear for 2nd Half of Program: Broadcast Given Over To Panel On Sewer Bond

The "People Want to Know" forum, broadcast from the H.H.S. auditorium by W. K. I. C., underwent revisions during yesterday's broadcast when two candidates failed to appear for the second half of the program—originally scheduled to be a question and answer session between reporters and the four candidates.

Not present for the broadcast were Willie Dawahare and Fred Combs, two of the candidates. Appearing for the broadcast were Robert Ken Terry and Don Fouts, the other two candidates for the two posts on the council.

Questioning of Fouts and Terry was dropped when reporters declined to put questions to them, explaining that it "would not be fair" to question two of the candidates in the absence of Dawahare and Combs.

The one-hour program had originally been scheduled by the station to be a panel discussion of the sewer bond issue the first half hour and a "Meet the Press" type of interview of the four candidates the second half hour.

The sewer bond was discussed for the full hour when only two candidates appeared for the second half of the program.

During the sewer bond discussion, Paul McGraner, W. K. I. C. news editor, and Fred W. Luigart Jr., Hazard Herald editor, posed questions for the bond issues. Panelists for the discussion included Dr. Dana Snyder, of the County Health Board, Gene Parker, People's Bank, City Manager Hobert Wooten, Mr. William Lamkin, attorney and Mr. Louis K. Birkel, director, both of the Kentucky Water Pollution Control Commission.

Both State officials gave the sewer bond issue a blanket endorsement, noting that it is illegal for communities to pollute Kentucky streams and projected cost of the plant seemed "reasonable." The cost of the sewer plant has been a controversial matter the past several weeks.

Birkel flatly denied that the "cavitator" system of sewer treatment would work here. He noted that the cavitator system is for small communities and could not handle Hazard's sewage requirements.

Birkel noted that in the light of rising construction costs,

"now" would seem the most appropriate time to build. Both State officials noted that three northeastern Kentucky communities have complaints against them because if they are dumping sewage in public streams.

The two pointed out that if Hazard doesn't vote the bond issue, the town may lose the $206,000 Federal grant on the sewer plant. The money, they indicated, could go to any of several other communities which are ready to start construction.

Lamkin call the controversial

"unlimited taxation" clause a "misnomer," explaining that any tax the city might enact is limited to the amount necessary to meet the principal and interest requirements of the bond issue.

Wooten explained that the City has plans to charge not more than "60 percent of the water bill," to pay off the bond issue. He said only persons now receiving both sewer and water service will pay this charge. Wooten noted that his figure of "60 percent" is based on current estimations of the cost of the plant.

School Officials Dispute Letter

Spokesmen for two county schools have denied charges leveled against the school system in a letter which appeared in the Herald, Thursday.

A spokesman for M. C. Napier said today the letter, signed by Grover C. Day, stems from the fact that the school is not permitting students to frequent during school hours a restaurant near the school. Day, the officials said, owns the restaurant building.

School officials noted that M.C. Napier had cracked down on students "skipping classes" to go to go to the restaurant—known among students as "The Hole."

The official pointed out that only recently two female students were found in the restaurant during school hours, and ordered to return to classes. The two girls were found dancing in the building, the school officials said "when they should have been in classes."

Officials also noted that accurate school lunch records are being kept and are "required to be kept by the Federal government." (The school makes use of surplus food passed out by the government).

Mrs. Grazie Combs, Principal of Dilce Combs High School, made a blanket denial of Day's charges. She said Dilce Combs does "not have a store; we do

Combs Returns To Political Wars Next Week

Bert Combs returns to the political wars in his own behalf next week following Tuesday's General Election.

The candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor in next May's Primary had devoted much of his time in the past several weeks to campaigning for the Democratic tickets, including candidates for Congress in all Congressional Districts and the Court of Appeals.

Other gubernatorial candidates also joined Combs in the effort.

The Combs schedule for the Democratic Party included television talks in Louisville and in Eastern Kentucky and personal appearance in all parts of the state.

While Combs has been giving his attention to urging a Democratic vote, his campaign headquarters in Louisville mapped plans for future meetings in behalf of Combs' own candidacy.

Thus far four major regional sessions have been held, with approximately 3,000 supporters on hand to give reports on the progress of the Combs campaign in each of Kentucky's 120 counties.

Drayman May Have Confused Goebel Statues, Says ESD Newsletter

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 1 — According to tradition, the statue of Former Gov. William Goebel in front of the Capitol was not intended to stand there.

The story is, says the Economic Security Department's Newsletter, that this statue, sponsored by and paid for by the Women's Monumental Fund, was intended for the martyred governor's grave in Frankfort Cemetery.

Furthermore, says the magazine in reviewing the legend, the statue gracing the grave was not intended for that spot but was to be placed in front of the Capitol. This statue was paid for with a $20,000 Legislative appropriation.

The two statues, it seems, were delivered in Frankfort at the same time, possibly arriving from the same foundry. In Frankfort they were handled by the same draying firm which inadvertently mixed the two. When the mistake discovered it was too late to switch the statues.

The Newsletter says it has not established whether this bit of tradition is founded on fact.

Says the publication:
"However... it is not difficult to believe that a mix-up in delivery might have taken place. The statue at the front end of the main entrance to the New Capitol shows Goebel in repose, while the one which marks his grave in the Frankfort Cemetery depicts him in various action, delivering one of the fiery orations for which he was distinguished."

Bungalow Designs To Fit Lot

While this pleasing bungalow is designed so it can be built on a 40 ft. wide lot, it's not necessarily restricted to a small lot. It is just as pleasing on a 50 or 60 foot lot, if you like this modern efficient room arrangement.

The living room has that pleasing combination of generous wall space, a natural fireplace with tile hearth and picture window, all of which contribute to an excellent furniture arrangement.

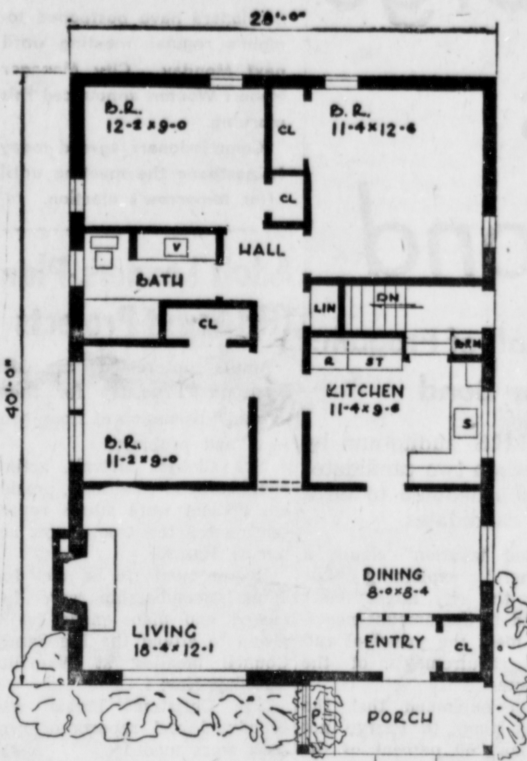

Note how the dining area is separated from the entry with clothes closet, bric-a-brac and china cabinet.

The three large bedrooms with spacious closets are made possible by the limited hall space which connects to the bedrooms, deluxe bath, linen cabinet, kitchen and living room.

Note the planning of the "L"-line kitchen which is arranged for efficient and easy movement. The daylight thru the window above the sink is always welcome when doing family dishes. The direct entrance to the dining area and sleeping area from the kitchen eliminates much traffic through the living room.

Stairs from the side entrance lead to the full basement which contains heating and laundry facilities, extra lavatory, and plenty of room left over for recreation or a playroom for the children or use when entertaining guests.

This plan conforms to general FHA, VA and Building Code requirements. The plan contains 1,120 sq. ft. and 22,778 cu. ft. Your builder or material supplier can give you the average cost per square or cubic foot in your area.

Humorist At The Wheel

"Humor is the button on the pants of life to which we fasten our civic suspenders; what a sorry spectacle we make of ourselves when we lose that button." So said Arthur (Art) F. Brise, Hot Springs, Ark. humorist, inspirational and after-dinner speaker in a recent Memphis, Tenn. press interview.

When reporters asked him just what it is that makes people laugh, and how his brand of humor differs from that of Abbott and Costello or the late Will Rogers, Brise replied, "Abbott and Costello blow up huge bubbles of ridiculousness that burst of their own weight; Rogers pricked the tiny little bubbles of human vanities with a sharp-pointed needle of satire." Pressed for a statement as to his own methods, the humorist smiled wryly, with, "O, I use an axe and let the chips fall where they may."

Affectionately known from coast to coast as "America's Knight of Satire," Mr. Brise is in constant national demand among large Trade Associations, Chamber of Commerce armal meetings, Service Club ladies' nights, etc.

Says Robert Dickson, Program Chairman, "We look forward to one of the most entertaining and stimulating evenings in many years in presenting Art Brise as our speaker for the Kentucky Mining Institute Convention banquet in the Phoenix Hotel, Lexington Thursday evening, Nov. 6."

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.

Do You Want FACT or FICTION?

I want to go on record as saying that I too would like a tax cut in my city, State and National taxes. WHO WOULDN'T?

But before we talk "tax cuts," let's examine some of the other points in this campaign.

Like YOU, it seems to me that I pay more than my share of taxes.

But also like YOU, I want some of the better things in life while I live—not when I'm gone. I want adequate national defense, the best roads, the finest schools and all the other services of our Federal and State governments.

YOU know and I know these must be paid for. The taxes we pay the State are returned to us in State services; the taxes we pay the Federal government come back to us in Federal services.

The same is true of our town—Hazard. If we are to be the "Beacon" town for our mountains, then we must go forward—and not backward. Time has proved to mankind that we don't stand still.

Your garbage tax may seem like a burden. But would you rather do without the tax and have Hazard looking like a garbage dump? Do you want to move backwards?

Two candidates have told you they want our streets kept in good repair, our water system maintained, our system maintained, and fire plugs for the entire city. I agree. We need these and a lot more. We need better housing. We need sidewalks. We need a public recreation program. We need more water lines, streets paved, hills opened up.

But let's not be misled. Let's stop and think. These same two men want to repeal the city auto tax and the garbage tax. Now I ask you. Do you want your city services curtailed—possibly even stopped altogether. No! None of us want that. We want to move forward and take our proper place as the shopping, cultural and entertainment center of Eastern Kentucky. Believe me, you know that to do this, it is necessary that we have money. I have no false promises. I am not going to promise you more services and less taxes. I am not going to talk out of both sides of my mouth, and I know and you know, that a promise like that is an insult to your intelligence.

South-East Coal Co. Offers $50,000 Toward Letcher County Airport

Whitesburg, Ky., Oct. 31 — South-East Coal Co., announced today it is willing to put up $50,000 toward construction of an airport to serve Letcher County.

The announcement was made by South-East Vice President, V. D. Picklesimer.

Picklesimer said he will go before the Whitesburg City

Council at its next meeting on Tuesday, Nov. 4, and also will appear before the Whitesburg Chamber of Commerce at its next meeting.

The company, Picklesimer said, has been doing a considerable amount of looking about in Letcher County and believes the airport should be located on top of Pine Mountain on land now owned by Steve Caudill.

He said the Caudill property would provide adequate space for a runway of 4,250 feet and possibly 5,000 feet. About 200 acres of land would be involved.

Picklesimer said South-East is willing to put up the $50,000 as Whitesburg's share of the total cost of the airport. In turn, he said, the company wants the Chamber of Commerce to raise the money which would be needed to purchase the land from Caudill.

Picklesimer explained that with the donation of funds from South-East, the airport could be built without any investment on the part of the city.

The state government, he explained, will match local construction funds dollar-for-dollar. The federal government in turn then will match the total state and local funds. With the $50,000 from South-East $50,000 from the state, and $100,000 from the federal government, a minimum of $200,000 would be available for construction of the airport.

The size of the runway would be adequate for use by twin-engine aircraft, and would open the way for possible airline service to and from Whitesburg.

Breathitt, Perry, Knott, Leslie, Clay Inducted In Bow - Arrow Season

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 29 — Kentucky's longest bow and arrow deer season in history will open in 31 counties on November 1 and continue for 30 days, with indications that hunters will have more to shoot at this year than ever before.

Another concession to the deer archery hunters this year is the permission to kill both bucks and does throughout the season except on November 27 and 28, the first two days of the gun season, when only bucks with visible antlers may be taken. The limit is one deer for the season per hunter.

An archery hunting permit will cost residents $5.50 and for non-residents the assessment is $25.50, in addition to a legal hunting license.

Nothing more than longbows may be used and barbed arrows are barred. Also the arrows must have a seven-eighths inch cutting surface.

As an aid to biologists of the Department, which stocked and nurtured the deer herd to its present size, hunters are asked to report their kill to the Department so that data on the progress of the herd can be assembled. Immediately after killing a deer a tag, which is provided with the permit, should be attached to the deer so that it cannot be removed without destroying the card and another section of the permit should be filled-in with required data and returned to the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

Whitetail deer may be killed legally in the following counties: Livingston, Lyon, Trigg, Caldwell, Christian, Hopkins, Hancock, Breckinridge, Meade, Harlan, Bullitt, Nelson, Hart, Edmonson, Barren, Metcalfe, Cumberland, Fleming, Lewis, Greenup, Carter, Breathitt, Knott, Perry, Leslie, Clay, Pulaski, McCreary and the western halves of Laurel and Jackson and the north section of Rowan county.

General Grant Saves Kentucky Governor-To-Be by Giving Parole

by Charles F. Hinds

James Proctor Knott, governor of Kentucky from 1887, became dean of Centre College Law School in 1894. He soon became quite popular with young people, whom he delighted in his private library with talk of books and of his varied experiences in his long career as a lawyer and a public servant.

One of his young friends passed on an interesting anecdote he heard from the lips of the former governor just one year before a crippling stroke forced Knott to retire from college teaching.

Governor Knott said that he was attorney general of Missouri when a state convention in July of 1861 declared the offices of governor, lieutenant governor, and secretary of state vacant, forcing the Confederate-inclined incumbents to flee to southwestern Missouri. Knott, a Southern sympathizer but not a seceder, stayed behind.

Trouble came to Knott personally a few months later when October 16, 1861, the convention proclaimed that all state officers must take an oath of loyalty to the United States and to the new provisional government which it had formed. The attorney general declined to take the oath, although remaining at his post.

Emissaries were sent to demand his formal allegiance to the Union side. When the oath was insisted upon, Knott refused saying, "It is an insult to my loyalty and impugns my patriotism."

"We will hang you, then," the radicals threatened. Knott is reported to have declined with the cheerful retort: "All right, hang away!"

The attorney general was removed from office and placed in Jefferson Barracks, a prisoner of war. Feeling was high in the charged atmosphere of rival political opinion. Mrs. Knott felt that she would never see her husband again, but a friend, General Ulysses S. Grant, interceded and obtained a parole for Knott, who, once free, left Missouri for his native county of Marion in Kentucky.

Some Adopted Children Now May Be Eligible For Social Security

Many adopted children who in the past could not qualify for social security benefits may now do so, according to Mrs. Alma D. Knox, district manager of the Hazard social security office. The reason is that it is no longer necessary that the adopted child of an old-age or disability social security beneficiary wait 3 years after the adoption in order to get payments started.

Beginning with September, 1958 the adopted child of a retirement or disability insurance beneficiary can qualify for monthly payments just as soon as the adoption is effective.

The adopted child must be unmarried and less than 18 years old. An adopted child over 18 years of age who became severely disabled before age 18 and is still disabled may also qualify for payments.

Mrs. Knox said that parents who are not receiving payments for such adopted children should get in touch with the social security office immediately. It is necessary that an application be filed on behalf of the adopted children before payments can be started.

Florida Citizen Endorses Carl D. Perkins

Grover C. Combs,
107 1/2 E. Columbus St.
Tampa, 2, Fla.

The Hazard Herald,
Hazard, Kentucky

Gentlemen:

I understand that The Honorable Carl D. Perkins of Hindman is up for re-election to The Congress of the United States, representing the Seventh Congressional District of Kentucky, Perry and surrounding counties. If this is true, which I must presume is, will you through the medium of your good paper, tell my family, (the Combs), what I know and how I feel about this deal, I was born in the month of October, the opal and the month of hope, let me hope that a thousand or more of my relatives, (my mother was married seven times); will read and agree with the oldest one of the family. Now let me see, have I neglected to mention my friends? What is a friend? My definition of a friend is, "one who knows all about you and loves you just the same." Friendship in battle is likened to the waves of the ocean, meet shake hands and part never to meet again. Live and love it whatever it may be.

Let's try and not forget the facts connected with this case and in all cases whether in or out of public service the man longest on the job becomes more adept and efficient than the newcomer.

Words of wisdom: "Wisdom comes as man goes and man goes, as wisdom comes; young wisdom is entertaining, yet seldom deep-seated."

I have met the man of whom I speak and aside from any make believe understanding, I find him to be an unselfish man and a man who stands ready and willing to help his fellowman, providing his fellowman has a lawful and worthwhile claim.

Have you mountain men ever thought about for whom you are voting? Oh I see, you are voting for the poor man, yes he needs the money. Oh now my presumptive friend, who are you voting for? Well, I am voting for my friend, is your friend educated? No, but he is a fine man. Pardon me, my fellowman, may I say that when you vote you are voting for yourself, therefore, select the man whom you believe can do the most progressive things for you and your friends.

As far as I am concerned there is no such animal as a Democrat or Republican, The Whigs, Bull Moose, Progressives, Republicans, Democrats, assemble them all and boil and listen to it fizz, when the stew is done what have we, the answer, A Medley Mulligan, unsalted, cold and cannot be recognized by the invitation of any of our five senses, seeing, hearing, feeling, tasting, and smelling. Therefore, may I suggest that we drop that from our category of our common sense of understanding of our better way of life.

I am presumed to be exceedingly adept, I can do many things that the average man can't do, I can train a horse, I can train a dog, however may I say that there are two things that I cannot do: tame a shrew, or tell a mountain man what to do.

The man of whom I speak, Carl D. Perkins reminds me so much of the poem, A Friend To Man by (Sam Walter Foss) Quote: "Let me live in my house by the side of the road, where the race of man goes by, they are good, they are bad, they are weak, they are strong, wise, foolish, so am I. Then why should I sit in the corner's seat, or hurt the cynic's ban? Let me live in my house by the side of the road and be a friend to man."

—Grover C. Combs.

P. S. — Please accept my subscription and starting immediately, I am one of the six Combs and eighteen country boys that left Hazard in Sept., 1902 for the Army in two jolt wagons for Jackson. At that time there were no railroad to Hazard. I am 77 years of age, retired with 32 years. My health is causing me to become senile. Please be kindly always and careful with your false intentions.

Rhine-Like City

Covington, situated on a flood plain of the Ohio River at the foot of the suburban hills that reach back to the high plain of the Bluegrass, looks like a city on the Rhine. The impression is heightened by the spires of many churches that taper up from among compact business and factory buildings, put up by German immigrants of the mid-nineteenth century.
